Statement by the

Islamic Advisory Group for Polio Eradication (IAG)

on the occasion of

World Polio Day

23 Moharram 1438 - 24 October 2016

Praise be to Allah and prayers and peace be upon the Messenger of Allah, Prophet Mohammed, and upon his kin and companions.

Every year the world is reminded on October 24 that a disease that has paralyzed and killed children for thousands of years still remains among us, threatening futures. On World Polio Day we are also reminded that Allah Almighty has bestowed upon us the blessing of a tool that not only can stop this disease from infecting our children but can finally eradicate it from Earth once and for all. This comes in fulfilment of Prophet Mohammed's saying, prayers and peace be upon him, that "There is no disease that Allah has created, except that He has also created its treatment." (Sahih Al-Bukhari)

The path towards polio eradication started a few decades ago with the discovery of the polio vaccine. This vaccine protects children from contracting the disease and infecting others with it. After having victimized hundreds of thousands of children in over a hundred countries across the globe, the virus has now been cornered into a few remaining pockets of three countries. While great progress has been made to bring down the number of polio cases in the past few years, anything less than the protection of every single child cannot be acceptable.

Allah Almighty has said in the Holy Qur'an: "They are losers who foolishly have slain their children without knowledge, and have forbidden that which Allah bestowed upon them, inventing a lie against Allah. They indeed have gone astray and are not guided" (Al-Anaam: 140). The Islamic Advisory Group for Polio Eradication (a partnership made up of AlAzhar AlSharif, the International Islamic Fiqh Academy, the Organisation of Islamic Cooperation, and the Islamic Development Bank, along with other religious scholars, technical experts, and academics) renews its call to all parents to step forward and vaccinate their children against this debilitating but preventable disease, especially those under-five who have not been vaccinated before. It is parents' religious obligation to do so; ignoring this might leave these children paralyzed for life. As Prophet Mohammed has said, "It is sin enough for one to cause the loss of whom he feeds." (Abu Dawoud)

The IAG also urges religious leaders and communities to protect and cooperate with vaccination teams who are exerting extraordinary efforts to reach every single child with this life-saving measure that Allah has blessed us with. On the occasion of World Polio Day, we would like to express our appreciation and full support of these workers, particularly as they put their lives at risk in order to fulfill their duties towards our children. Their dedication reminds us of the Prophet's saying, "Allah loves the worker who when he is doing his work, he does it with perfection." (Al-Tabarani)

May Allah protect our children from all harm, and bring them up to be the strong and productive members of the Ummah they deserve to be.
